

About me

My passion is capture with light people's stories. Regardless of the type of project, my goal as Director of Photography is to create images that will not only tell the story, that will affect the viewer on a subliminal level.

With a vast experience in all formats, both film and digital, I have worked extensively on short-films, advertising television and documentaries. My films are screened at festivals around the world.

Specialties:

Story above all, narrative of light and framing, capturing physical behavior, using visual context and out of context and teamwork. Multicultural experience.
